Woman's Temperance Meeting. Hev. Geo. E. Hite, of Wheeling, W. Va., made a most eloquent address yesterday afternoon in Masonic Hall, for the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. He gave it as his conviction that the coming legislature of his state would submit to the people a "prohibitory amendment" to the State constitution, and if the people were allowed to vote on the question it would extralally carry in favor of problibition. The election which carried Annapolis for local option was the theme of much thankegiving on the part of the workers, and many regarded it as direct answer to prayer. A meeting for the purpose of agitation of the question of problibition in the District will be held next, Sunday. Masonic Hall, for the Woman's Christian Ter

Between 10 o'clock last night and 6 o'clock this morning some flend incarnate entered the stable of Mr. M. McCormick, the greeer, which is situated in Brown's alley nertheast, and with a kinfe or razor hacked a fine horse belonging to that genleman in a frightful manner. The poor nolmal presented a terrible appearance when the hostic cintered the stable this morning. The floor was literally covered with thick blood, while the animal stood groaning and suffering intensely from three glassity wounds, two deep cuts on the hosk downward to the belly, the latter being at least two inches deep, from the effects of which the animal can hardly recover. No cause can be assigned for the dastardly deed, and the persectator, if captured, should be severely punished. The animal was valued at $600. Nothing was stellen from the stable.

After the clerk had finished reading the bill providing for the collection of taxes, Mr. After the clerk had finished reading the bill providing for the collection of taxes, Mr. Speer, of Georgia, speaking to the cigint section of the bill, which provides for the distraint of property for non-payment of taxes, said it was an outrageous clause, which no congressman would agree to place upon the people of his district. The clause provides that when the collector cannot find personal property to selze, for non-payment of taxes, he may file an affidarit with the clerk of the court, and the defaulting taxpayer shall appear before one of the judges, who shall order aim to surrender up his property, and upon his refusal so to do, he shall be punished as in cases of contempt of court.

Mr. Neal supported the clause. He said it was stringent, but that it was necessary and would save the Government $400,000 a year. At 2.10 the bill was passed with uninportant amendments, and the House then began the constderation of H. B. 690, as above alluded to, and the Clerk began reading.

DIDN'T RECOGNIZE THE DUKE,

And therefore He was Treated Like Common Clay.

When a real live English nobleman visits washington (faceticasty styled "the Mecca of snotss") and is snubbed, then it is the proper caper to say that the foreigner had been play enoise") and is an unbed, then it is the proper caper to say that the foreigner had been playing in hard luck.

"Yer cawart always most sometimes tell a nobleman, yer knaw," a State Department clerk said this morning when speaking of the alleged snubbing of the Duke of Nowcastle at St. John's Church yesterday.

The Duke is a little chap. He is a mere stripling: In fact, not over 18 years of age. He dresses plainly, adhering, of course, to that style of trowserfoons that it too quick, but is a sliggether unpretentious. He has a suite of apartments at Wormley's. Yesterday morning when the church-bells were ringing, the Duke, without mentioning the fact to any one, quielly set out to attend divine worship at St. John's Church, having learned previously that that was the place of worship of the President of the United States. The organ was clowing, the choir asinging, when, his lordship reached the cilibe, and his appearance did not indicate "that a single wave of trouble rolled across his peaceful breast "until a stern visaget seation and a sanctified looking usher barred his way, and informed him that he would have to remain in the vostbulo until the regular pewholders were seated.

Instead of saying them, in a read live Duke," or displaying a card to this effect, his pricking when he related his grievance to his hotel, where he related his that the sexton and usher were doubliess correct, as it was a custom at the hot his hotel, where he related his proper his perfective mentally crowded out sundays, to give the pow-holders th sundays, to give the pow-holders the preference.

"If we had known," he said, "that you desired to attend church we could have arranged for eccuring you an available seat in some one of the private pews."

His Ducal Nibbs, however, did not quite understand why he had not been recognized as "a real live Duke," and continued his kicking until finally escorted to and singly scated in the Church of the Epiphany.

The sexton at St. John's, nor no member of he congregation there, had any intention of being discourteous, and whatever inconventince the Duke experienced was brought about by his own impattence.

The Duke still remains in the city, but it is doubtful whether be will make another effort oyielf a church, unless, perhaps, he can previously arrange to have his coming publicly heralded to the congregation.

EAST WASHINGTON.

EAST WASHINGTON.

An afray between two unknown colored men, which may result fatsilly, occurred between 4 and 5 o'clock yesterday evening in the delectable locality known in the northeast as Low abottom. After quarreling for a while, the two men finally began a lively and severe fight, during which one of the combatanis was cut across both eyes with a rasor. Blinded with blood and rage, the wounded man drew from an inside pocket a similar weapen and lashed his antagonist across the back, causing a ghastly-looking wound. The fight was then stopped by a number of colored people who has assembled, and the wounded men conveyed to neighboring houses. The names of the men are not known, but it is known that the wounds inflicted upon the two man are of a serious nature, and it is thought that the man who was cut across the eyes will lose both of those organs.

Despite the unfavorable weather yesterday the several East Washington churches were rather well attended. At 8t. Mark's church, Rev. A. Floridus steele, floly Communion was celebrated in the evening. An interesting general temperance meeting, under the attacked in the evening and interesting scapel temperance meeting, under the Allina Hrashyerian Church, flew. John Chester discoursed in the evening upon "The Nature of Saving Faith." At the Fourth street M. E. Church, "Out of the Old" formed the very interesting morning tople. Licenses For the Year.

On account of the new methods adopted by the License Board about fifty per cent. more cases have been acied upon than at least year this time. Last year after applications were field they would frequently remain in the office weeks without being acted upon, on account of incorrectness in the name or wrong locality. This year the License Board, to remedy this delay, passed a regulation which allowed an application not properly make out to remain in the office but ten days before being acted upon, the applicant being notified before the expiration of the time; this caused them to be prompt in arranging their papers correctly.

Ushers at Weddings.

Ushers at weddings.

Ushers at weddings are so indiscriminately selected that missibles are often made, and one among the chosen is always of more imperiance than the green hithself. This was fully demonstrated at the Johnson-Bovernsur wedding on Toursday at the Ascension Church, where 's youth to fortune and fame himself, which is expected for major domi, rushed up and down as if a patient of or, in the part of the second of the pews in order to reach a lady, and forced her to jump over the back of one of the pews in order to reach a space be said was reserved for wraps. He said was capectally morthlying to both the bride and groom, as the lady was an invited guest.

— Sunday Gazette.

Inquiry develops that the usher referred to in the above paragraph was one Browne (with an e) from "culchawed" Boston.
